Nancy Wynne Talks of the Marriage of Charles Wilson to Massachusetts Girl—The Frederick Stouts Have House Party in Maine

EVERY one will be very much surprised to hear of the marriage of Charles Wilson to Alma Harris, of South Chalmers, Mass. And the cause of the surprise is the fact that it is entirely news to all, because their engagement had not been announced so far as any one can remember, though they have known each other for a couple of years, it is heard.

Charles Wilson is the eldest of the three Wilson men, sons of Dr. and Mrs. W. Reynolds Wilson, who have been living at the Bellevue-Stratford and have a country place in Villanova, Henricetta, the only daughter, was married last spring to Ned Stinkens, a neighbor of the father of Dr. and Mrs. Wilson. The wedding took place today in the Church of the Advent in Boston. If Alma has anything like the looks and style of her new mother-in-law, she will certainly be an addition to Philadelphia circles. Mrs. Wilson is, to my thinking, absolutely stunning. She has such a beautiful figure, carries herself so well, has wonderful wavy gray hair and wears the most artistic clothes. I remember a pearl gray creation of velvet which she wore at a luncheon I attended one day last winter and her picture had of gray velvet was trimmed with a long ostrich plume.

HOUSE parties are the order of the day for the rest of this month, it is heard. The Frederick Stouts have one in Northeast Harbor at present, and I understand the boys and girls have been asked to stay for a fortnight, for it is a very delightful place to stay in, and it takes the long trip to Maine it hardly seems worth while to stay just a few days.

WHAT a handsome woman Mrs. Trustin Hare is! I saw her in town one day this week wearing a stunning gown of dark blue crepe de chine, made with the fashionable bateau neck and finished at the edges with a narrow cording. Her hat was of the same material, wrapped in soft folds about the crown.

MOTHER AND FATHER JACK were talking together at dessert the other evening, and Betty, who is nearly four years old, was seated between them in her high chair slipping away at her peaches and cream, apparently paying attention to the conversation. Among other things mother said: "You'll have to get some white knickers, dear, before we go away." And in answer, the girl replied: "No, I can't; that (indicating Betty's white knicker) eats too much bread and butter. Mother acquiesced without further remark and the matter was forgotten.
